Plan Convention RUSSIA IS EXPECTED

Embarrassment Is Forecast for New Ministry Over Its Diplomatic Proposals.

Russia is expected to refuse Premier Ramsay MacDonald's proposals, deliv-ered through Norway in Moscow today. which were intended to lead to re-sumption of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and the Soviet.
Political reactions here to the Russian, snub, if if comes, are likely to embarrass greatly the Labor government and to postsone or prevent an exchange of ambassadors between the two and to postpone or prevent an exchange of ambasadors between the two countries.

MacDonald suggests in the British note that Russia send an emissary to London to discuss questions at issue preliminary to reestablishment of relations. The Russians, it is stated to night in diplomatic quarters, will reply that they decline to do this, but are ready to discuss anything with Great Britain after duly qualified diplomatic emissaries have been exchanged and the situation regularized.

MacDonald's political difficulty in this anticipated situation lies in the Autitude of the Liberals in the House of Commons headed by former Premier Llyod George. The Liberals were prepared to support labor against the Conservatives if MacDonald had at once renewed diplomatic relations, but it is unlikely that they will support MacDonald if he now seeks to climb down and do as the Russians wish, while Tory attacks on labor, if such a plan were suggested, would be more effective and more probably successful than if recognition had taken place in the first place.

It was the Russian issue that top-place.

It was the Russian issue that toppled labor out of office five years ago. And now extreme caution in dealing with the problem left him by Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary in the Baldwin government, seems to have landed MacDonald in the first awkward predicament of his new administration.

The governors incidentally have nothing to do, certainly not at this time, with the suggestion that there may be a possible modification. That may be a possible modification. That is something admittedly very vague. On the other hand, there is reason to believe that Mr. Hoover would seriously like to have the States look after their own local prohibition affairs. The resultant shootings would be local and the prohibition controversies similarly so.

He could then keep his national en-forcement officers out of the limelight.

Given 30 Days and Fined $500 for Editorial Criticizing Court.

APPEAL WILL BE FILED

Cleveland, July 17 (A.P.).—Sentenced to serve 30 days and pay fines of $500 each for an editortal denunciation of Common Pleas Judge Frederick P. Walther. Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, and Cariton K. Matson, chief editorial writer, were at liberty tonight pending an appeal after spending an hour at the county jail earlier in the day. Judge Walther pronunced the sentences today at the conclusion of his hearing of his own charges brought against the two newspaper men after adjudging them in contempt of court. Newton D. Baker. former Secretary of War, and former Mayor of Cleveland, who conducted the defense, filed an appeal and obtained a stay of execution from Appellate Judge Willis Vickery.

defense, filed an appeal and obtained a stay of execution from Appellate Judge Willis Vickery.

Beltzer and Matson were released under $1.000 bond pending the outcome of their appeal after they sat in Sheriff E. J. Hanratty's office an hour while Baker got in touch with Judge Vickery at the latter's home.

Issuing Injunction Criticized.

The contempt proceedings were started by Judge Waither after the Press editorially commented on his issuance of an injunction restraining Sheriff Hanratty from Interfering with operation of the Thistiedown race track and the use of the disputed "contribution" system of betting "iff the same be not in violation of the law."

Assistant County Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighly held the injunction "not worth the paper it was written on," and the sheriff raided the track, made three arrests and haited the meet.

The editorial, which characterised the injunction either "monstrous" or "ridiculous" and inlimating that Judge Waither had been made the violim of race track interests, appeared the same day the track was closed and was revised three times in as many editions.

Judge Waither held the criticism contemptuous. He set forth three reasons—that the case was still pending before the court at the time the editorial was published, that even had the case not been pending, the court had a perfect right to punish for contempt and that such acts only have to be construed as obstructing justice.

Cites Freedom of Press.

Cites Freedom of Press.

Cites Freedom of Fress.

Seitzer and Matson were pronounced guilty after Judge Walther overruled a motion for diamissal, which Baker argued for in a long plea for freedom of the press and defense of the privilege of criticizing public officials. He denied that the order involved was still pending as claimed by Judge Walther.

The judge then sentenced the men and ordered them taken to the county jail at once. The defendants walted there an hour before their appeal was filled and bond fixed. They were not forced to occupy a cell, however.

In a joint written statement Seitzer and Matson declared that the jail sentence was a "small price to pay in fighting for a principle."

They contended that the injunction they attacked "purported to rearrain an officer of the law from doing his sworn duty," and that they knew they faced a "hazard" in their battle.

"This is a plain case of the freedom of the press to criticize court orders which it regards as lawless," they declared.

Appellate Judge Vickery said that wiless arecial efforts are made to adventees a recial efforts are made to

Of the $180,000,000 made available immediately by Congress, the board announced that it was not in a position at present "to give definite consideration to applications for loans." Moreover, the farm agency decreed it "logical to expect" that agricultural cooperatives would exhaust the lines of credit obtainable at reasonable sates—both from private banks, and the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks—before "coming to the board for further assistance."

The following statement was made by Mr. Legge at the close of the day's work:

"Today's discussions of the Federal Farm Board have largely revolved around the loan provisions of the agricultural marketing act. This act provides that money may be loaned to farmers' cooperative associations by the board, under certain limitations, for purchase or creation of physical facilities and that loans may also be made for the financing of commodities in the ordinary processes of marketing. Policies of the board with reference to physical facilities have not yet been laid down.

"In the matter of loans for the marketing of commodities, however, the board believes that Congress did not intend it to supplant the services now rendered to the cooperative associations by private banking institutions and Federal intermediate banks. It is logical to expect that cooperatives will exhaust the lines of credit which may be obtained at reasonable rates from those other institutions before coming to the board for further assistance."

Winchester, Va., July 17.—T. A. Cope and, president of the Chicago Wool Co. was today indicted by a Corporation Court grand jury with Arthur G. Jones and Max Krol, former officials of the Arthur G. A report by the stockholders protective committee asserts the corporation owes approximately $200,000, but that "the Chicago Wool Co, has been paid an outrageous sum for cheap wool, and is is the only creditor being substantially paid its debt." The stockholders report also states the capital stock of $345,000 is still due them. Many stockholders and financiers testified before the grand jury.

The joint indictment against Copeland, Jones and Krol recites organization of the Jones Corporation. Copeland and George A. Dunham owned stock in the Winchester Woolen Co. on a 50-50 basis. Jones, coming from Fairmont, W. Va., secured an option to buy the property and equipment for $60,000 cash in hand. The indictment charges that Jones and Krol sought preferred stock subscriptions and with money thus obtained Copeland bought the stock held by Dunham, so that he became holder of the entire stock of the Winchester Woolen Co.

the owner of $15,000 of preferred

Another count says it was "further secretly and fraudulently stipulated that T. A. Copeland should sell wool to the said corporation for the Chicago Wool Co. at prices largely in excess of the prevailing market price, and that said Jones and Krol should be in a position to embezzie the funds of said corporation without any complaint from the said T. The indictment alleges Kroll and Jones paid no money of their own for the stock, and that Copeland "long afterward was paid out of the funds of the corporation $30,000, which represented his one-half interest in the Winchester Woolen Co."

It was charged that Jones and Krol on the stock, and that Copeland "long afterward was paid out of the funds of the corporation $30,000, which represented his one-half interest in the Winchester Woolen Co."

It was charged that Jones and Krol converted to their own use money of the corporation obtained by "this fraudulent secret agreement with T. A. Copeland" regarding sale of 500,000 pounds of wool at alleged excessive prices, and that "the stock of the corporation is now of no value."

The stockholders' committee took possession of the property after Jones' arrest and the mill has suspended operations, pending an audit and inventory.

As they climbed out of the chrit, they found themselves in the ms of two of their old friendly rivals old Orchard, Me., Rene Le Fevre and meno Lotti, jr., of the crew of the silow Bird, who greeted them affectuately.

"Well done, boys," cried Lotti in greeting.

"It's fine to be in Paris," was Yancey's rather irrelevant acknowledgment of the congratulations. And Williams merely nodded, his broad smile bespeaking his contentment.

Sidney Veit, representing the American Aero Clubs, was on hand to welcom Williams and Yancey. A number of French aviators also pressed around the Americans to congratulate them on their flight from Maine to Rome by way of Spain.

The crowd wanted to carry the two Americans on their shoulders, but the police intervened and made a path for them to the exit from the airport, from which Williams and Yancey were driven by automobile to the Hotel Lotti.

The pilots of the Pathfinder said they were overwhelmed with their reception in Rome and now only want to enjoy Paris quietly and informally. However, they will be received officially tomorrow by the French air minister and at the American Embassy.

Hyde Asks McCarl To Buy Radio Set

Department Needs Practice to Broadcast Facts. He Contends.

etary of Agriculture Hyde con ued his effort yesterday to convince mptroller McCarl of the need for a nall radio set in the department with comptroller McCarl of the need for a small radio set in the department with which bureau chiefs and other experts who disseminate agricultural data over the radio could practice until they acquired that "modulation of the voice" necessary to get their message across.

McCarl held that "any expense necessary to fit the officers and employes of your department for the duties to be imposed upon them in connection with the broadcasting work or otherwise, should be borne by them personally." McCarl further added that the 1930 appropriation act did not provide for such an expenditure.

In a letter to McCarl, Secretary Hydepointed out that in recent years the radio has been used constantly in diffusing among the people of the United states useful information on the subsects connected with agriculture in the most general and comprehensive sense of the word. It will be readily apprehated," he said, "that unless the ipeakers are familiar with radio technique, which is required to put a nessage across, much of the effectiveness of this important means of reaching the people will be lost."

CONFLICTING PEACE-RECIPES.

Now that China has rebuffed Soviet Russia and massed 15,000 troops along the Manchurian border in reply to the Russian ultimatum, and Moscow broken off diplomatic relations with China, the hope of averting war appears to have been lessened.

Meanwhile, however, the twentieth century peace recipes are being discussed here and abroad, and their application to the crisis suggested.

One idea is that America should intervene. It is argued that since the United States originated the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war, the duty of preventing the violation of this pact by China or Russia, or both, rests squarely on the shoulders of Uncle Sam.

Another suggestion is that the nations of the world, signatory to the pact, should unite in preventing this threatened war on the ground that the pact renounces all wars, excepting certain special wars reserved by certain of the signatories.

Under the Kellogg pact, the signatory nations have the solemn obligation to see that the Russo-Chinese dispute does not lead to a rupture of the peaceful relations betwen these two countries or any other countries. There must be an ironclad guarantee of the preservation of peace and the elimination of war if the signatory powers live up to their international obligations.

Meanwhile, however, these same nations have other solemn obligations by which they must abide. These are the olemn obligations under the covenant of the League of Nations. The signatories of the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war and everlasting preservaion of peace find themselves bound by he league covenant to be prepared to go war in defense of the covenant.

Article 16 of the covenant, after prodibiting all intercourse with a covenantreaking state "whether a member of the league or not" states:

It shall be the duty of the council in such case to recommend to the several governments concerned what effective military, naval or air force the members of the league shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the league.

The fact that Russia is not a member if the league does not alter that obligaion to use armed force, because article 17 of the covenant provides as follows:

In the event of a dispute between a member of the league and a state which is not a member of the league, or between states not members of the league, the state or states not members of the league shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute. upon such conditions as the council may deem just, &c.

There is no mistaking the language of the covenant which binds the nations to e armed force-in other words, wargainst either Russia or China, or both, a case the covenant is broken.

No diplomat expects the covenant to perate or have any effect on the situation in the Far East, any more than ny statesman believes the Kellogg pact ill deter the disputing nations from folwing whatever course they elect to folw in furtherance of their own interests. But it is curious to note that the peace cipe via the Kellogg pact excludes war d the peace recipe via the league coveant makes war mandatory upon the owers signatory to the Kellogg pact.

To live up to their solemn obligations e nations may find themselves connted with the problem of engaging in war under the covenant and abjuring war at the same time under the Kellogg

Meanwhile it is hoped that the Chinese and the Russians will spare the world from the spectacle that would follow in the wake of any attempt to remain true to the covenant and the Kellogg pact by the process of promoting war and preserving peace simultaneously.

INAUGURATING FARM RELIEF.

The Farm Board starts its labors with the encouragement of rising prices in the wheat market. Unquestionably the mere fact that the board has been organized and has begun deliberations has tended to stimulate an unward swing of prices, but the more important factor is the revelation that the Canadian wheat crop will be below normal. Official information shows that the Canadian crop probably will not exceed 360,000,000 bushels, as compared with the 534,000,000 bushels originally estimated. Expectation of a short Canadian crop, coupled with the fact that the American crop does not promise to be as large as was originally anticipated, has boosted prices and will make it easier for the board to assist wheat growers in moving the crop into the world market. It is singularly fortunate that the task of the board promises to be made easier during its first year by this development, inasmuch as it has been announced that the project of farm relief will be "approached deliberately." It is apparent, said a statement issued by Ale Alder Legge, chairman of the board, "that the structure to be erected must be of a permanent character."

The initial policy of the board has been announced. It contemplates the utilization and strengthening of existing farm cooperatives, and the creation of others, to the end that the farmer-producer may be brought closer to the ultimate consumer and the profits that heretofore have passed into the nands of numerous middlemen may pass to the farmer. The board proposes first to stabilize the marketing machine for farm products, and to provide machinery for financing crops in storage. It proposes to carry out the features of the farm relief project indorsed by President Hoover, holding in abeyance the features that were borrowed from the McNary-Haugen bill. The features of the act that enable the board to purchase surpluses and withhold part of the crop from the market are not to be invoked for the time being, perhaps principally because of the fact that there promises to be no need for such actions.

In view of the fact that the wheat crop promises to be below average, this course may please every one. Certainly an improved marketing machine will materially assist the farmer in moving and getting a satisfactory price for his crop and it may be found that it will not necessarily serve to increase the price to the consumer. But it must be remembered that an improved marketing machine will have no effect upon the crux of the farm relief problem. It will not serve to prevent the production of surpluses. Whereas an improved marketing machine may provide relief this year, it may not prove effective next year if planting is not curtailed and if the weather does not put a brake on a surplus. This will be particularly true if the farmers get good prices this year and they succumb to the temptation to increase their acreage.

Chairman Legge, in his statement, said: The board believes that a thorough organization of agriculture for marketing purposes will put producers in a much better position than they are now to control the appearances of surpluses at their source, and that this angle of approach to the 'surplus problem' is worthy of serious consideration." Most assuredly it worthy of "serious consideration." Probably in the "thorough organization" of agriculture lies the only hope for the curtailment of surpluses at their source. But it will take years to "thoroughly organize" agriculture and bring it to a realization that farm relief is inseparably bound to the adjustment of supply and demand. The farmers themselves will have to do this and they can best be brought to realize the necessity of the step through their cooperatives. The Farm Board starts upon its difficult task sensibly. It may count itself lucky that nature seems to have come to its assistance with the promise of a short crop, giving it time for organization, and making unnecessary the immediate application of the emergency clauses of the farm bill.

RECOGNIZING RUSSIA.

Ever since the Labor party won the election in Britain on a platform which included recognition of Soviet Russia, there has been speculation as to what concessions the Labor ites would make to gain favor in Russian markets. The question has been partially answered by Foreign Secretary Henderson in his announcement that the Soviet will be asked to give satisfactory assurance that England and the colonies will not again be flood ed with communistic propaganda. The Labor government is put in a precarious situation by its attitude toward the Soviet. In 1924 Prime Minister MacDonald recognized the Soviet government, only to have the Conservatives withdraw from diplomatic relations when communistic propaganda became too offensive. To again expose Britain and her colonies to the insidious schemes of the reds would hardly meet with approval, especially in view of the recent communistic outbreaks in India. But the Laborites are pledged to secure the supposedly rich Russian market for English goods, and so a middling course must be pursued.

Russia will be recognized if the governent can keep its communism at home. Britain can not tolerate communism, yet the Laborites will approve the communistic dictatorship in Russia for the sake of expanding trade. Commerce between the two countries be restricted to commodities. Ideas and political theories will be barred. At the same time the Labor government has refused the equest of the exiled Trotzky for permission to visit England. Apparently he is an object ionable character who believes in world revolution against capitalism. His political views can hardly be said to be more objectionable than those of the existing Soviet regime. But Trotzky is an exile, and his enemies in control of the Soviet are temporarily powerful. They are believed to be holding out promises of rich trade to the country which approves their radical experiment in government. Only profitable communism is approved. It will be interesting to watch the reaction of the Soviet government to the proposed re striction on propaganda. If the restriction is accepted, will it be carried out? Will it be possible for the Labor party to reach out and pick the plums from a contaminated tree with-

UNIONIZING THE SOUTH.

The United Textife Workers and the American Federation of Labor plan to unionize the new industrial South. A start will be made by organizing the employes of 100 large textile mills in North and South Carolina. Georgia. Tennessee and Alabama. The action is a direct result of the recent labor disputes in the Southern textile mills.

A unionizing campaign will be carried on by the two organizations assisted by a committee of 1,000 representatives of labor, civic and church organizations and prominent individuals. Efforts will be concentrated on the largest factories where employes have expressed a desire for organization. The campaign is expected to affect 300,000 textile workers.

Recent strikes in the Southern mills brought to light unsatisfactory working conditions. It is claimed by the American Federation of Labor that the average wage is not more than $12 per week, and that thousands are workipg for $8.60. The "stretch-out system" brought long hours of work. In some in stances employes are dependent upon the mill owners for housing. Unionism has not yet gained a footing in the South. When the workmen considered conditions no longer endurable they held mass meetings before going on strike. Hostility toward union organizers has been particularly acute. Some have been kidnaped and others warned to leave the strike areas on threats of death.

The experience through which the South s passing is quite natural for a newly industrialized region. One of the principal factors drawing textile companies to the South has been the cheapness of labor. Under such circumstances labor disputes were inevitable. Workmen of the South will not continue to be satisfied with wages much lower than those paid in the North for shorter hours. The Southern textile workers would no doubt organize of their own accord, without any urge from existing unions, but the action of the American Federation will hasten the process

The unionizing movement will meet with stubborn opposition and may prolong industrial strife in/the South. But conditions will never be satisfactory until the workmen of the South are put on a level with those of the rest of the country. Southern industrialists can not hope to escape unionization for any length of time, and their resistance will only extend the period of disruption. Since the rise of unions is inevitable, it would seem expedient for the companies to accept them and cut the South's industrial growing pains as short as possible.

THE WICKERSHAM LETTER

New York Times: The drys have long contended that State enforcement ought to supplement Federal enforcement. But they will note with alarm that Mr. Wickersham would have State enforcement displace Federal enforcement. They will assert that everybody knows what this would mean in States like New York or Pennsylvania or Louisiana oryes, we may as well say it-Kansas. It would mean no enforcement at all. The Antisaloon League will also insist upon demanding why on earth Mr. Wickersham held out the hope, "the national and State laws might be modified so as to become reasonably enforceable." Here is parlous matter to come from the head of the President's Crime Commission. It is tantamount to saying that the laws as they stand are not reasonably enforceable. To the extreme drys this will sound little short of high treason. The President will surely hear from them. They will call for Mr. Wickersham's instant removal as one who openly flaunts his disloyalty to the most sacred of

New York Herald Tribune: It is a possible inference from this that Mr. Wickersham favors State enforcement measures which will contain their own interpretation of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage, subject, of course, to review by the Supreme Court. Such laws might in individual instances permit, within State boundaries, the manufacture, transportation and sale of liquors barred by the Federal Government in interstate commerce. This may not be what he means to propose, but without some such inducement to alter their present stand it is hardly conceivable that States which refuse now to enact enforcement legislation will do so at his sug-

New York World: On the merits, the World, of course, welcomes the suggestion because it recognizes, however faintly, the principle of federalism and the consequent division of authority and duty between the central and local governments. But the merits of Mr. Wickersham's suggestion are completely obscured by the extraordinary fact that he has had the temerity to make any suggestions. He is chairman of a commission which has been intrusted with the difficult task of studying law enforcement in general and prohibition enforcement in particular, and it seems to us a perfectly amazing spectacle to behold the chairman of that commission announcing con clusions and issuing advice before the study and investigation have been made. this all the more freely because, as it happens, the conclusion in this case is considerably to our own taste. But surely the one certain way for the commission to impeach the authority of its own findings is for the chairman to announce his conclusions before he has even sembled his data.

Baltimore Sun: This statement from the chairman of the President's commission stands in sore need of clarification. Does Mr. Wickersham, in suggesting modification of State and national prohibition laws, mean change of the eighteenth amendment to permit modification of the Volstead law? Or does he, in speaking of the national Government looking after shipments of liquor in interstate commerce, and of the States preventing sales in saloons, speakeasies and so forth, mean en-

Any Man Can Learn to Swim, But He Must Have Deep Water.

THE ordinary individual remains ordinary for the same reason 1 that an automobile makes but 10 miles an hour. He doesn't use the power that is in him.

Every man who spent his boyhood in a small town and played the games that required much running will remember the astonishing and delightful experience of "getting his second wind."

Usually it happened in his early teens, when he had begun to delight in athletic competitions. He had run until his labored breath came in gasps and his feet seemed made of lead.

And then a breath came that was sweet and refreshing. His fatigue was gone. He knew he could keep on running for miles. It was a Nature opens unused portions of the lungs when necessity demands. But boys who never do their utmost go through life with part of their lungs closed. They endure a life-long handicap because they do not make full use of their natural equipment.

A similar failure to harness natural resources explains the little access of the ordinary man. He never opens up. When a crisis comes in the affairs of men and there is need of a strong and wise man to bear the burden and solve the problems, one comes up out of the crowd and brings order out of chaos. The reader of history is tempted to say: "How fortunate that a great man should be at hand whenever a great man is needed." But the man who saves the day isn't "great" except in latent abilities He is neither wiser nor stronger than hundreds of his fellows.

He accepts burdens and responsibilities that are thrust upon him by chance and these develop him. A great task requires great effort, and in making the effort he harnesses resources that he might never have used in the ordinary affairs of life. A great man is an ordinary man whose job requires full use of his abilities.

We call a President great because great events transpired while he held office, but among his contemporaries were scores who could have done his work as well or better.

The measure of a man is the measure of his job. The ordinary man rows great if his burdens are heavy enough to strain him to the limit. We talk glibly of doing our best, but not one in a thousand ever does his utmost at anything.

We do as well as others are doing, or well enough to get by, and there rest content. Of 90 rated horsepower we develop 30 and avoid the hard pulls that would require more.

Chance makes the opportunity, in many instances, but nine times in chances are if the Government keeps ten the only difference between a top-notcher and a fourth-rater is that the top-notcher worked harder.

Experienced Drivers Are Dar Drivers-Ability Must Be Applied Calmly and Cautiously.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: A bulletin from the State of Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles, written by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel, has recently come into my possession. It contains a common-sense exposition of the cause of automobile accidents that should be broadcast far and wide. Mr. Stoeckel makes the point that the involved in an accident because "he drives in a cautious frame of mind, doubting his ability and painfully aware that he is engaged in a new project. in a field where he is a novice." But as the new driver gets better, says Mr. Stoeckel, he becomes more con-dent and he speeds up. He manipu-lates his machine with more and-more accuracy and new dangers develop.

They clip along at a tre-mendous rate of speed, dodging in and out of traffic lanes, stealing rights of way and generally showing off. As Mr. Stoeckel says, this is to the advantage of such a person until he meets up with another of kindred character-istics. this superstition to the new two-dollar bill. All of the new money is designed so as to make counterfeiting almost impossible. The two-dollar currency bears on its face a picture of Thomas efferson and on its back a beautiful view of Monticello. If the public becomes accustomed to looking for these distinctive marks, the bill can not possibly be mistaken.

The attractiveness of the new twodollar bill should add much to its the one-dollar bill, and much more convenient. It is a nuisance not to have a piece of currency between the general circulation. If public demand for the new "twos" increases, the Government will no doubt be induced to print a larger proportion of them. It's just up to the public to be sensible about this new bill.

Real Heroes of the World War Having All Been Recognized, It Would Be Well if a Time Limit Were Fixed for Granting Decorations.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Sec etary Good has shown excellent judgment in disapproving any further ex-tension of the time limit for granting World War decorations. Both "Return Calls" of German General Made Last Spring.

By JEAN ELIOT.

G EN. WILHEMN VON HEYE, of the German army, must have paid a good many calls when he was traveling on the American continent early last spring. Not only is Gen. Francisco Javier Diaz, who has been a visitor here for two days, en route to Berlin to return his visit, but it develops that our own Brig. Gen. William D. Connor, commandant of the Army War College, is now in Germany on a similar mission. Gen. and Mrs. Connor are traveling abroad and are at present in Berlin. The general was received by President Hindenberg

Following a call of ceremony upon President Hoover yesterday morning, Gen. Diaz was entertained at luncheon by the Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Carlos Davila, who had asked a distinguished company of men to meet him. Gen. Diaz is the highest ranking officer in the Chilean army and holds the post corresponding to our chief of staff.

Senstor David Alken Reed was among the guests at Senor Davila's luncheon and others present were Mr. David E. Kaufman, United States Minister to Bolivia; Mr. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State; Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, Assistant Secretary of War; Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union; Maj. Victoriano Casajus, Military Attache of the Spanish Embassy; Maj. Gen. Williams C. Rivers, Mr. George Akerson, Secretary to the President; the Military Attache of the Peruvian Embassy, Col. Urdanivia Gines; Col. Carlos Fuentes, aid de camp to Gen. Diaz; Col. Stanley H. Ford, Col. Robert G. Roy, Mr. William Hard, Mr. Charles M. Pepper, of New York, director of the Chilean-American Association, and members of the embassy staff, including Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel, first secretary; Commander Juan Polich, naval attaché; Maj. Zorobabel Galeno, military attache; Senor Don Manuel Valdes, secretary, and the commercial secretary, Senor Carlos de la Barra.

The ambassador had had a rather less formal party for Gen. Diaz the night before, entertaining at dinner in his honor at the picturesque Plage Deauville at Wardman Park Hotel.

The general stayed at Wardman Park while in Washington. He left town ast night for New York, whence he will sall today on the S. S. Stuttgart for Germany.

Mrs. C. C. Teague Intends to Join Husband in August.

When President Hoover asked the farm board to dine with him on Monday evening following their organization meeting, he included their wives in the invisation. It developed, however, that they had assembled so hastily and with so fixed an intention of rolling up their sleeves for hard work that no single member had brought his wife with him.

REPORTED BY RADIO.

"Well, I'm blowed if it ain't Hannah!"

Constable Haines then busied himself in running down the life story of Hannah Brown. He found a man named Harry Davis who recalled the woman. Davis said Hannah had called on him on the day before Christmas and told him that she was engaged to marry James Greenacre, who lived near Kenssington.

That was a good enough clew for Haines. He started for that neighborhood at once, and eventually located Greenacre on the Surrey side of the Thames in the parish of Camberwell. He was living with a woman named Sarah Gale, who had a young daughter. Greenacre stoutly denied any knowledge of Hannah Brown. He said he had never met the woman much less promised to marry her. But while Haines was talking to Greenacre he noticed a significant glance pass between the suspect and the woman. He saw something else. It was a dress the child was wearing. The material of which this was made corresponded with the stuff they had found wrapped around the trunk of Hannah Brown when it was discovered in Paddington.

Being a very conscientious as well as a very direct person. Constable Haines arrested James Greenacre and Sarah Gale, and left the matter of their guilt to be decided by the corner's inquest. The corner turned the case over to the court and the trial took place in the Old Balley, adjoining the annex to Newgate Prisyn. It is interesting to note that Chief Justice Coleridge presided.

A witness appeared who testified that he had seen Greenacre going into the note that Chief Justice Coleridge presided.

A witness appeared who testified that he had seen Greenacre going into the house of Sarah Gale with a woman on the day before Christmas. This woman was tall and in every particular resembled Hamnah Brown. He also swore that some time afterward Greenacre left the house carrying a bulky and very heavy bundle in a large, blue merino bag.

Two other witnesses testified that they had heard a quarrel going on in the house during the time, Hannah Brown was there. There was a scuffling and much noise, and finally a fall as of some one dropping to the floor.

It was proved that Sarah Gale was seen scrubbing the floor immediately after Greenacre left, and detectives completed the capstone of evidence by testifying that brimstone had been used in the house for the purpose of fumigation.

Two motives were assigned for the crime. First, jealousy on the part of Sarah Gale, and secondly, robbery, because Hannah Brown had not only been killed but robbed.

The jury convicted Greenacre, and before he was executed he confessed his guilt. There was doubt about Sarah Gale, and she was merely transported for life. Washington.

The bride's father was formerly Governor of Kentucky, and at one time represented a Kentucky district in Congress. She is a niece of former Senator W. O. Bradley, of Kentucky, and of Mrs. John Glover South, wife of the United States Minister to Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. South have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Morrow and remained to attend the wedding. They will go to New York today, sailing Saturday for Panama.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

It would be interesting to know the mental processes by which the powers that be have reached a conclusion that prize fight pictures are anathems, but sound shd motion views of champion-ship wrestling bouts are the berries. Personally, I fail to see the difference—except that I wouldn't cross the room to witness the best wrestling match in the world and would walk far enough to get a whole herd of camels to see even a mediocre, boxing bout.

However, that is apart from the point to get a whole herd of camels to see even a medicore boxing bout.

However, that is spart from the point that the talking pictures of the Sonnenberg-Lewis two-falls-out-of-three party in Boston recently provide every element of interest, or disinterest, to which the authorities presumably object when gloves are used. The arena seems to be identical with that in which a fight might be held: the crowd is of about the same caliber—with any possible variation all in favor of the mitt show—and one hears, now that these things are made audible as well as visible, precisely the same sort of caustic comment as usually furnishes vocal accompaniment for the popular jousts in the beezer busting business.

In watching the scholarly Mr. Gus Sonnenberg butt the erudite Mr. Strangler Lewis into a state of almost complete come, after the eminent Mr. Strangler Lewis had knocked the distinguished Mr. Gus Sonnenberg on his sar for the first time in his professional life. I detected scant margins of preference in favor of the mat spectacle as opposed to one in which Herr Moxie Schmayling might be contemplated in the dignified business of slapping the Lithuanian sailor, Mr. Sharkey, around the ring, or vice verse.

In case my attitude has not been made wholly clear, I máy say that I am in no wise opposed to the presentation of wrestling pictures, although that is not my favorite sport, but insist marriy that if they are shown then fight pictures ought also to be per-

PARROTS AND OLD AGE.

It is said that parrots live more than one hundred years. Certain parrots have been known to live with people that long, it is said, and on this the notion of the longevity of parrots is based. But how about the people who live with parrots? What hazards are they subjected to? Parrots have tuberculosis, but it is not certain how contagious it is for human beings. A greater danger seems to be that of asthma and certain forms of hay fever.

Dr. G. T. Brown writes of a gentleman who suffered from perennial, or all-the-year-round hay fever. He went to Atlantic City and while there was free from his trouble. He jumped to the conclusion that a trip to Atlantic City was a panacea for hay fever. But later he had to go to a less auspicious place and again he was free from the man that did the trick. But made. Therefore the time and effort cure is greater. This man lans Laid to Formulate Policies on Wave Length for Aviation; Another Meeting Is Called As Experts Map Tests.

The growing importance of the use radio in seronautical navigation was scussed yesterday morning at an informal conference called by Radio ommissioner William D. L. Starbuck in attended by radio and aviation filelais and engineers of the Army, avy and Department of Commerce, long with Herbert Hoover, fr. represting the Western Air Express Co., and L. D. Seymour, of the National ir Transport Co., of Chicago.

Although many phases of the oblem were taken up, no definite an, upon which the Radio Commission may base its actions as to the de be adopted for presentation to the emmission.

A warning was issued by Commissioner Starbuck, the chairman, that the number of unassigned frequencies of scarce and that they consequently abould be put to best use. William D Terell, chief of the radio division of the Department of Commerce, declared that in his opinion if the proper frequencies are not available for airplanes in their communication work some should be taken from the broadcast band. He also recommended that air transport companies carry on detailed radio experiments and make reports from time to time so that the United States Government would be prepared, at the next International Radio Conference in 1933, to declare just what is needed in the way of airplane communication channels.

It was the consensus of opinion at munication channels.

It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that radio could be used to great advantage in the prevention of accidents, particularly by directing landings, and in the transmission of weather reports to filers.

The conference was told by Seymour that while airplanes are able now to get along with only receiving sets, it will not be long before transmitters will become a necessity as well.

A. H. Wells, of the airways division, Department of Commerce, said that radio is becoming ever more important on large transport landing fields. An airplane he said, coming to a landing field, should be able to tune in on the field radio station and receive instructions before dropping to earth. structions before dropping to earth. This, he explained, would prevent ac-cidents with other machines taking off.

Herbert Hoover, jr., probably the concontour of the land affected the com-munication between the ground sta-tions and planes, and that it was nec-essary in some of the mountainous sections for the aircraft to go out of its way to keep in touch with the land. Both day and night frequencies have been found necessary for communica-tion by the transport companies, he declared.

INTERPRETS the MODE

Begin Today This charming bathing suit of light blue jersey has a double set of trunks—the outer of light blue and those beneath of Shilkret to Start Victor brown. (Courtesy of Marynowitzky, Paris.)

The third is likewise of printed crepe de chine—this time in blue and white in an irregular dot design. The collar is of plain white and comes rather low in two rounded points, edged with radiating lines of pleating. A blue and white leather belt, very narrow, marks the waist-line, and two flounces give the required skirt fulness.

You see k was this way—she really had possibilities, but her hair was counruly that it made her look like one of these nice shaggy dawgs—you know the kind, with the woozy hair that falls all over their eyes? When it was long all the hair-pins slid out of it after it was dressed for ten minutes, and it wisped all over her ears and neck. Then she had it bobbed—'n tomorrow we'll tell you what happened then.

The most remarkable, wonderful, extraordinary, practical, chic, easily made, inexpensive, can-be-worn-by-either-little-sister-or-grandmother-equally well—what? Hat!

Niff it falls to be any one of these, we will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make it, so that you can enjoy it as much as we have!

THE vogue for printed materials, and the attractive things that can be done with them, is well illustrated one with them, is well indistrated in the costumes worn by Mille France Ellys in a smart play recently produced in Paris, "La Rolls-Royce." Her role calls for no lavish or exotic tollettes and in the simple yet graceful afternoon frocks she wears we find splendidly expressed the decorative qualities of prints.

One is of crepe satin, with small pink flowers on a black background. The skirt is very full and the bodice simple, with collar, cravat and a rather wide belt of the same material. With this is worn a little jacquette, also of the same fabric. Cravat, jacquette and skirt hem are trimmed with a wide band of plain black crepe satin.

Another, a somewhat formal afternoon gown, is of black and white crepe de chine, printed in one of those indefinable curlicue designs. It is on rather straight lines, with square neckline, waist-line a bit low, and a skirt panel gathered at the back, which is at least a foot longer than the skirt itself, giving the necessary "back-dip."

IV. ELAINE'S FAREWELL

WHILE Elaine was nursing Sir Launcelot back to health she became more and more in love with him. He spoke to her kindly, but he would use no word of love.

It was a sad day when Launcelot was taken from her hand, and it read:

"Most noble lord, Sir Launcelot, I come to take my last farewell of you."

"Most noble lord, Sir Launcelot, I come to take my last farewell of you."

"Most noble lord, Sir Launcelot, I come to take my last farewell of you."

"As Launcelot received this message, his heart was torn with sadness and pity. Walking some distance away, he paused and looked back, murmuring to himself, "Ah, simple heart and sweet," but I could not love in return. Farewell to thee."

The days passed and Elaine felt herself growing weak. She believed that she would die." Wishing to compose a message, but not knowing the art of writing, she called her father to her side. He wrote down the words after she had spoken them.

"Father," she said, "I am sure that I shall not live much longer. When I am dead, place me in a barge so that I may be borne down the river to Camelot; and let this letter rest in my hand."

The lord thought that his daughter was simply faint, and would grow better: but he promised to do her bidding. Elaine did not grow better. On the contrary, she grew weaker and weaker, until at last she died.

The body of the unhappy maiden was placed in the barge, and gently the tourent bore her down the stream.

J. E. Probyn in New Office.

J. Edgar Probyn, of Probyn & Co., who has opened an office in the Evans Building as correspondent of W. E. Willard & Co., Inc., of New York, was secretary of the Willard company until he resigned to head his own company in the sale of Willard securities. Mr. Probyn states that the Washington office is the first independent dealership in a program of expansion which Willard & Co. have adopted recently. He is enthusiastic about the future of the company in Washington and believes that eventually the Willard company will be as firmly established in Washington and vicinity as it is in New York and up the Hudson River, where the company has more than 3,000 clients.

The REFRIGERATOR that says "LEASE THIS APARTMENT"

WHAT sort of refrigeration has this apartment?
That's one of the major questions which instantly flashes into every woman's mind. The General Electric with its quiet, trouble-free, sealed-in mechanism and its remarkable all-steel cabinet, has put the signature on many a lease.

You may wonder why it is so often said that the General Electric Refrigerator is particularly good for apartments. It operates independently-each tenant has complete control over his own machine. He defrosts it or regulates the temperature when it suits his convenience. No action of another tenproof refrigeration.

It plugs into any convenient electric outlet and begins its important job-automatically, it always keeps the temperature safely below the 50 degree danger point, safeguards your food, checks dangerous hacterial growth. And it gives you the comfort of having plenty of ice-cubes always on hand. As evidence of guaranteed reliability-there are now more than 300,000 users and not one has ever spent a single dollar for repairs.

When you're looking for an apartment, give special attention to the one which has a General Electric Refrigerator. For, if it has this most ant, or of the superintendent, interferes with his modern of refrigerators, you may be reasonably service. This individual control assures worry- sure that it will be up-to-the-minute in most other respects, too!

Gain in Brokers' Loans Expected.

A large gain in brokers' loans is expected to be disclosed after tomorrow's reasion. Wall street is particularly anxious to receive the weekly bank state-iments to learn what success the New York banks have had in reducing their Pederal Reserve borrowings.

The day's news continued favorable, particularly the weekly steel trade resilieus, with pointed to heavy buying of pipe line and railway steel, which is maintaining the demand in the face of a letup in automobile requirements. Faright car loadings were reported for the like week last year, but reduced from the previous week, owing to the holiday. Second-quarter earnings statements continued pleasing.

Republic Steel reported net for the period of 32,363,300, compared to only 31,053,855 in the same three months of 1928.

Farm implement shares were heavily ought in response to the new advance agrain prices. Case Threshing and Instantional Harvester were bid up about T and 7 points, respectively, to new ligh ground.

Germany Pins Tennis Hopes On Youths

Prenn, Moldenhauer to Play Both Singles and Doubles.

Tilden and Hunter Are Beaten by Allison and Van Ryn.

BERLIN. July 17 (A.P.)—While Germany rested all its hopes in the hands of its young sensations, Daniel Prenn and Hans Moldenhauer. the United States tonight definitely selected Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter to play the singles and Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn the doubles in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals against the Germans this week-end.
Discarding the doubles combination of Heins Landmann and Heinrich Kleinschroth, which lost in the series with England, the German strategists sprang a surprise by naming Prenn and Moldenhauer to carry the burden in doubles as well as singles, when the exact line-ups were announced tonight, a day earlier than had been expected. As a result of the draw made immediately after the line-ups were announced. Tilden is paired with Moldenhauer for the opening singles match on Friday while Hunter faces Prenn, considered the more formidable of the Germans because of his two victories in the matches with England.
On Saturday, Allison and Van Ryn will tackle Prenn and Moldenhauer in doubles while on Sunday the first day's pairings will be reversed with Tilden meeting Prenn and Hunter opposing Moldenhauer.

left knee. The joint, which has forced him to retire from two other ball games this season, went out of commission again in the sixth inning this afternoon and Bluege was forced to the bench with a possibility that he will not be able to perform again for at least a week.

The Washington third sacker was called upon to make a brilliant play in the sixth when, with men on first and second, Willie Kamm slapped a stinging ground ball between second and third, just a trifle too far over for Cronin to handle it. Bluege went after the ball, but in attempting to field it he was pulled over so far that he took a tumble. He made the throw to second from a sitting position to force Reynolds, but found himself unable to rise. He was carried to the bench, and Myer moved over to third, Jack Hayes being sent to second.

1929 to Be Lean Year for Progeny of "Wonder Horse."

Clyde Van Dusen Biggest Contributor With $58,000.

EW YORK, July 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—
Man o' War, the wonder horse in racing and breeding, is having a slack year. Unless a decided change for the better comes in the fortunes of his get the money returns will be leaner than in any season since American Plag was a 3-year-old.
Clyde Van Dusen, by his victory in the Kentucky Derby, is his biggest contributor so far with $58,000 and Bateau helped to keep his name prominent by her brilliant race in the Suburban Handicap when she beat Petec Wrack a short head in a most spectacular finish. Volunteer, the jumper: Ironsides, Battleship Grey and Son o' Battle have helped along by winning two or three minor races each, but with the season half over Man o' War's total is not more than $80,000—a rather poor start if he is to be up with the leaders next November.

helped along by winning two or three minor races each, but with the season half over Man o' War's total is not more than $80,000—a rather poor start if he is to be up with the leaders next November.

So far not a single 2-year-old of any importance has been exposed. Twenty were registered and there are quite a few in training. Some of them hold out promise, but as so often is the case with juveniles by this sire they are slow in developing. It has come to be a recognized fact in racing that the cons and daughters of Man o' War do not shine in their first year, but improve with age. The ill-fated Scapa Flow, which literally died under saddle in the Brooklyn Handicap of 1923, was an outstanding exception to this rule, although cityle Van Dusen did mighty well last year in earning $55,768.

Seapa Flow Contributed $$1,400 to the Cause.

Scapa Flow won the Futurity of 1926 and generally was considered the best colt of his age. He earned $81,400 and helped put Man o' War at the top of the stallion list that season with the record total of $408,137, most of which was contributed by Crusader, then a 3-year-old.

Still Scapa Flow did not begin to show his quality before the meeting at Saratoga Springs in August, so that it transcript of the stallion list that season with the record total of $408,137, most of which was contributed by Crusader, then a 3-year-old.

was contributed by Crusader, then a 3-year-old.

Still Scapa Flow did not begin to show his quality before the meeting at Sarstoga Springs in August, so that it is not yet too late to expect something from some of the 2-year-old sons and daughters of the chestnut wonder this season. Two or three may come along to build up his winnings to a point that will keep him in the forefront of the sires. Morton L. Schwartz's Quarterdeck, which has not started as yet, might turn out to be be one of these.

Genie, his biggest money winner last season, may be another to help along. He has started only once this season but is training well under Henry McDaniel for other engagements.

Man o' War did not give promise of being conspicuous as a sire with his first crop in 1924 when seven of his get won only fourteen races and 29,865. Since then, however, he has played a dominant part in the breeding industry being fourth on the list in 1925, first in 1926, seventh in 1927 and second last season only a neck behind High Time.

SEAGRAM or bust. This is the slogan from Canada today. As a matter of fact, the waterloo representatives seem to have first and second money tied up in the second spasm at Dorval Park this afternoon. Yea, bo, this is the real spot to get vacation money. Anything is liable to be third.

For the opening dash, I favor DARK RANGE, which is at the top of his very best form and should graduate today. MORJACK and CAN-ALLE for what is left.

MISS GAIFTY is the clocker's special, taken to beat POTTERY and GALLOPING DIAMOND. Of course, if the going turns muddy. PANDORA would then be a serious factor. Tabbings is the correct word.

SARATOGA MAJE is in good form and should beat out SPORT HALLAHAN and JESSIE CAREY.
The latter was quite a handy winner Tuesday.

ROCHESTER and TOMBEREAU close up.

The Seagram Stable has a sweet sleeper in the second. Personally, I doubt whether they will "shoot" right off the reel, because he goes back in the big race Saturday. One thing I do know and that is if the money shows you better be riding with them, for FRED PARKER is one of the swetest pickles ever yanked forth from the old vat. POLITA may rule the choice with GIFF W. and COLOR BLIND also well in demand.

The Goldstream Stud holds a strong hand in the third in ESKIMO and MOLEHILL. Also, and for your further information. I might add this horse DODGSON has to be beaten. If Competition for The Washington Post's cups and medals among playground athletes will be keen this year if the rivalry being shown in the practice meets now being staged is a criterion. Seldom have the boys shown more interest than is now being manifested in the annual summer championship games which will be staged on the Plazs Playground on August 21.

Four meets were staged yesterday, involving ten playgrounds. In the two triangular meets of the Western division Weightman scored 93% points to show the way to Pillmore and Corcoran, which had 52% and 11 points, respectively, while Arthur Marks' Barnard team triumphed over Brightwood and Truesdale. The points scored were 93, 60 and 9.

In the Eastern division Wallach avenged a defest of a week ago, winning from Buchanan, 117% to 43%. Buchanan won last week by a 1-point margin. The other meet resulted in a 108-to-61 victory for Stanton over Orr. Gill Outstanding Ster

Maulbetch Is Named

Grid Coach at Marshall Special to The Washington Post.

Huntington, W. Va., July 17.—John F. Maulbetch, coach of three sports at Okiahoma A. and M. College for the least eight years, has accepted the position as head football coach at Marshall College here. He will succeed Charles C. ("Trusty") Taliman, who resigned recently.

The new coach also will probably have charge of track, which will be insugurated on an intercollegiate scale next apring.

Maulbetch resigned as head coach of football, basket ball and baseball at the Stillwater institution several months ago. He comes to Marshall with a national reputation established by tweive years of coaching in the State of Okiahoma. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Show-down test . . . at Roosevelt Field, New York, reveals the true cigarette preference of Aviators.

The question is often asked: "Does OLD GOLD pick out its strongholds, the places where it outsells its three rivals, when it makes its 'Concealed Name Tests?'" The answer is "Nol" OLD GOLD doesn't seek "set-ups" but "show-downs." As a two-year-old youngster, "O. G." couldn't be expected to match "sales totals" with the three veteran brands, each from 12 to 16 years old. Give a young fellow time! But when it comes to comparing quality . . . that's "O. Gs." mest. For example, look what happened at Roosevelt

Field, New York's greatest airport. Here, "O. Gs." rank third in sales. But when 68 Roosevelt aviators and their mechanics took the "Concealed Name Test," OLD GOLD won, hands down, as the most appealing cigarette! The score, as audited by certified public accountants, was: OLD GOLD 23 first choices ... Brand "X", 13... Brand "Y", 17... Brand "Z", 15.

THE DOUBLE - - EDGAR WALLACE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAP-

Dick Staines, Department Inspec-Dick Staines, Department Inspector, happens upon mysterious intruders in the deserted house of Jovial Waiter Derrick, neighbor of Tonmy Weald, whon Dick is visiting. One of them, a woman, amazes him by her striking resemblance to Mary Dane, a beautiful nurse whom he has recently met at Brighton. When Lordy Brown, a derellet from Africa, attacks Mary and Insists that she is Mary Devillers, of Cape Town, Dick concludes that Mary has a double who is involved in a criminal gang that is attempting to get Inal gang that is attempting to get something for nothing . . . and that something the portion of Der-rick's inheritance which has never Twelve o'clock-she could not have reached London before two. The murder must have been committed, according to the doctor's view, not much after midnight, at the latest one o'clock.

"Phew!" he said. "Very few," said Tommy, "not like "Very few," said Tommy, "not like her. old boy, anyway. Here's luck!"
At Tommy's request, and to satisfy his morbid curlosity, he took him over the Derrick household. Walter had gone back to Keyley before the arrival of Tommy Weald and was unaware that his guest had left him.
"I expect he will be terribly cut up," said Dick. "I should be. After all, you don't get a cheery devil around the house very often."

Into the drawing room Tommy could only just peep, for there were men very busy inside.

only just peep, for there were men very busy inside.

"What are those photographers doing?" he asked.

"Taking photographs," said Dick, and, rather unnecessarily, as it happened, he pointed out a spot on the landing.

"That's where the ghost was," he said. Tommy jumped.

"Ghost?" he said uneasily. "I say, old man, not a ghost?"

"There's nothing to be scared about; it's not your ghost and not your house."

Dick drew a long breath.

"Thank God for that!" he said.

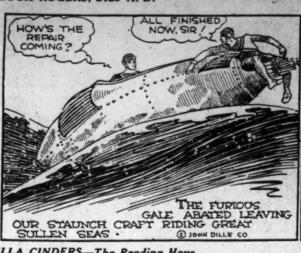

Thank God for that!" he said.

Tommy seized him by the hand, his capining with gratitude.

"You're pleased about it, old boy; ill-feeling? I mean. I'd hate to cut dout, but in love, Dicky—"

Associated Gas and Electric System

Rendering a Widely Diversified Public Service

ORGANIZED in 1882, the same year in which the first central station for incandescent lighting went into operation, Harris, Forbes & Company has long been identified with the development of the most important public utility companies in the United States and Canadaamong them the Associated Gas and Electric Company, the operating subsidiaries of which provide electric light and power, gas, water or transportation-services to over 1,200,000 customers in more than 2,200 communities in eighteen states, the Philippine Islands and the maritime provinces of Canada.

Serving industrial, residential and agricultural regions, the Associated Gas and Electric System now controls assets valued at more than $800,000,000, supported by gross revenues of nearly $100,000,000 annually.

Today the Associated System is one of the largest public utility systems in the United States. In reaching this position resourceful, intelligent and experienced management has played a vital part. Grouped together to secure the benefits of unified operation, the various properties have realized substantial economies in connection with purchases, financing, new construction, engineering and new business expansion.

In geographic distribution of properties, in its large number of industrial and domestic consumers, as well as in the varied nature of its services, the Associated System enjoys an exceptional degree of diversity as to income.

We invite inquiry regarding the securities of the Associated Gas and Electric Company.

of the powerful anti-Smith Democratic leaders in the Valley of Virginia in the last presidential election, today formally announced his spport of John Garland Pollard fof governor, and said he would return to the Democratic primary and wote for the Williamsburg candidate.

Judge Haas and former State Senator George N. Conrad in the last presidential election constituted the anti-Smith team which was a factor in swinging a group of the valley counties into the Hoover column. Judge Haas made a number of speeches in behalf of Hoover in this section of the State. Conrad has resigned from the anti-Smith campaign committee and says he will support G. Walter Mapp is he is nominated in the Democratic primary. Judge Haas' statement is as follows:

"I am supporting Mr. Pollard for governor and expect to vote for him in the primary.

"A great deal of good has been acernor and expect to vote for him in the primary.

"A great deal of good has been accomplished in Virginia under the leadership of Gov. Byrd. especially in the way of tax reform, and I would regret very much to see either the primary or the general election result in a seeming disapproval of the people of his administration. Mr. Pollard's election would favor a continuation of the policies of Gov. Byrd. I do not agree with the policies of the other candidates with respect to taxation, and that subject I regard as a matter of paramount importance to the interests of the people. Neither do I agree with their opposition to the short ballot, but it is idle to talk about that at this time, as the legislature of 1932 complete.

Halting his chase of a fleeing bootleg suspect yesterday morning on Riggs road, Prince Georges County Policeman Claude Reese sprinted to the abandoned rum car in time to keep it from crashing into several automobiles. The prisoner was captured by Constable Raiph Brown.

According to the story told by the police in Hyattaville branch of county police court yesterday, they had chased the car for more than three miles at a high speed. They had almost succeeded in closing in on the suspected rum car when they saw the driver stop the machine and jump out, they said. He started across the fields in front of Chillum Manor Club. Both policemen started in pursuit.

As he crossed the road, Reese saw from the corner of his eye that the car had started to back down the steep declivity and was headed for two oncoming machines. One of the machines contained two women. Reese dashed for the suto and managed to swing the steering wheel in time to run the car off the road. The oncoming drivers had become alarmed meanwhile and had started backing their cars.

Constable Brown captured the man, who gave his name as Edward Widmoore, 22 years old, and his address as 1119 Twelfth street northwest. The police say they found 140 gallons of alleged liquor in the car. Widmoore was fined $200 on charges of illegal transportation and possession by Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

PLAN NEW STREET PAVING

THE WASHINGTON POST BU 312 S. Washington St., Alexan Phone Alexa The council at its meet expected to take action on a Hyattsville has too many stop signs on Franklin avenue to conform with the heavy traffic on that street, it was decided at a meeting of the Exchange Club of Prince Georges County yesterdaty. The club voted to inquire of the town council whether it would not be better to erect the stop signs on the side streets entering that avenue. It was pointed out that the avenue, which leaves the Baltimore boulevard at the National Guard Armory and winds to the Ram's Horn road, which leads from Hyattsville to Mount Rainier and Takoma Park and the District, has three stop signs in a few blocks which retard traffic that should be accelerated.

President O. B. Zantzinger, jr., appointed Dr. William B. Spire, C. J. Parkinsøn and H. C. Fleming members of a committee to confer with the State Roads Commission in an effort to have the work of extending Rhode Island avenue from the District line to Hyattsville pushed through this season. The club was greatly perturbed by reports that work on the avenue might be delayed until next year, because of difficultury in obtaining the right of way and the great amount of detail work necessary to searching titles. The meeting was held at College Inn, in College Park, Md. A. H. Seldenspinner, real estate dealer, was admitted to membership. The council at its meeting today is tepseted to take action our several matters of importance, one being the proposed purchase of an aerial truck for the fire department, which will cost between $15,000 and $16,000, and which has been under consideration for several mouths. The new truck, if purchased, will probably be placed in the No. 1 Engine House on Prince street, between Royal and Fairfax streets. The old truck of No. 1 company is in excellent ehape, but is not adapted to use on high buildings and, in the event the annexation proceedings now pending are favorably decided by January 1, it is proposed to place the old truck in the town of Potomac. It will also be necessary to purchase an additional piece of fire apparatus for Potomac, in the event of annexation, since one of the pieces now in that town is understood to be the property of Arlington County, and will not be included in the transfer of property incident to the annexation.

Another matter which will probably be considered is the paving or resurfacing of several streets, which was before the council at the last meeting, but action on which was withheld. This street work is contained in the current budget.

Negotiations for the installation of additional street lights in the town of Colmar Manor have been instituted with the Potomac Electric Power Co. by Councilman George W. Cox, who was appointed chairman of the committee at a special meeting of the mayor and town council Tuesday night. The company is preparing estimates and other details and Councilman Cox expects to have a report ready for the August meeting of the council.

George Evans was appointed town marshall at the meeting and Mrs. A. Millhouser was appointed town health officer. Another special meeting will be held on the first Tuesdays.

Leon Duke, colored, who is alleged to an all-day picnic will be given today at Mount Auburn, the suburban residence of Miss Helen Calvert, for the benefit of the Alexandria Day Nursery and Children's Homer and many residents have arranged to spend the day there. Girl Scouts will be present to assist in caring for small children. Bridge will be played under the large shade trees, and in the afternoon children from the home will present a flag drill, directed by Mrs. Ruth Field, kindergarten teacher. A Mother Goose rhyme, in appropriate costumes, will be presented by a group of pupils from Mrs. McDonald Douglas' kindergarten. A grab bag will be managed by Mrs. Harry Kirk in the afternoon, and the proceeds will be used by the welfare committee to aid in maintaining the nursery, which was establiheed through the efforts of the Alexandria Rotary Club, with the cooperation of practically every fraternal and charitable organization in the city. be held on the first Tuesdays.

Leon Duke, colored, who is alleged to have jumped bond of $500 on liquor charges last January, yesterday was arraigned in Hyattaville branch of county police court on charges of transportation of liquor and runfing a disorderly house. He was fined $50 on each charge. The negro was captured Tuesday night by Washington police. He was arrested in January by County Policeman Claude Reese.
